Subject: Road Trip

Hey, guess where I am. I'm writing from the back of a van! I am surprisingly enjoying myself a lot. I thought I would hate riding in a vehicle for long stretches, but it's actually fine. The only tiresome thing is my younger siblings' constant talking. I wish they would just nap when we are on the road. Thank goodness I have my own room at the guesthouse at every stop.

5. Which of the following is true about the email?
- a. The writer's siblings make a lot of noise.
 - b. The family shares a room at the guesthouse.
 - c. The road trip is uncomfortable for the writer.

Questions 9 to 18

9. Read the text below and choose the best word for each space. For each question, mark the correct letter A, B, C or D on your answer sheet.

The Quarrel

I get along very well with my family. However (0), last Saturday we had one of the worst arguments we have had in ages.

It was my sister (9) started the whole problem.

She asked me if she could borrow my favourite sunglasses. When I refused, she just took them from my drawer! When (10) to my parents, they told me not to be so childish. Dad said I ought to be a bit more generous. He gave me a (11) about giving in to my younger siblings. This annoyed me to no end, but I didn't say anything more.

I went to my room to work on my science report, (12) I thought would take 45 minutes. I had planned to go out after that. My friends wanted to check out the new café and I had agreed (13) them there as soon as I could. The café was just a ten-minute walk from my house, so I knew I would be home (14) than usual.

I thought I (15) to get permission from my parents anyway. They usually allow me to do what I want because I'm not as irresponsible (16) my sister. Unfortunately this time, they refused to allow me to go out alone. They wanted me to go with my sister. They said that (17) I disagreed, I could not go at all. We had horrible argument. The more I protested, the more furious they became. In the end, Mum ordered me to go to my room where I spent a dull evening. My sister and I haven't spoken (18) the incident.

Part 3 (8 marks)

Question 19 to 26

You are going to read an extract from a magazine. Choose the correct answer

A surprising number of people in the UK believe in ghosts. About 42 per cent of Britons think ghosts actually exist. A survey by the National Opinion Poll found almost two-thirds of those in Scotland and northern England admitted to having seen or felt the presence of a ghost. Those in the south and older people had more doubts about the existence of ghosts. So, what is that makes people feel this way? Some scientists think they may have the answer.

One theory is that people are prepared to believe in ghosts because of their knowledge of a place. It is probable that the kind of stories they hear about a certain place encourage people to believe in ghosts. When they hear scary stories about a place, people are more likely to feel scared when they visit it. Some ancient castles and palaces have histories of murders and mysteries which feed the imaginations of people who believe in ghosts. No wonder visitors to these places often expect them to be haunted! Odd noises that would not worry visitors in their own homes suddenly appear quite spooky!

Scientists who carried out experiments with volunteers in Hampton Court Palace, England and the South Bridge Vaults in Edinburgh, Scotland – two of the most famous haunted places in Britain- reported some interesting results. They found that people's strange experiences usually happened in the same parts of the building. The scientists think that some people are affected by the environment of the haunted building. It is the darkness, the cold, sudden drops in temperature and perhaps even some barely noticeable noise that affect their bodies, creating the feeling in their minds that something is not 'quite right'.

Research has also shown a possible connection between magnetic fields and the feelings that a place is haunted. Magnetic fields are areas that occur naturally but vary from place to place. Although we cannot see the forces in these areas, it is possible that they have an effect on the human body. Tests in laboratories have shown that small changes in magnetic fields can cause people to experience odd feelings. This could explain why the places which volunteers felt were most haunted were also the areas where there were the greatest changes in magnetic fields.

What about the feeling that some people report of a ghostly presence in the comfort of their own home? Experts say many people's experiences of ghosts are easy to explain. People often have these experiences as they are falling asleep or waking up. In these situations, people are half asleep, half awake and they see a face or a person near their bed. Sometimes these are people they recognise. These are quite common experiences, a little like visions, or a sort of waking dream. Unlike dreams, there has been little research into these experiences, so people often called them as ghosts.

19 In paragraph 1, which British people are most likely to believe in ghosts?

- A Old people from all over Britain
- B English scientists who study ghosts
- C People who live in the south of England
- D People in Scotland and the north of England

20 In paragraph 2, what causes visitors to find a place scary?

- A They hear loud sounds.
- B They have heard that it is haunted.
- C They have never visited it before.
- D They have studied ancient history.

21 The word “haunted” in paragraph 3 means

- A possessed
- B anguished
- C protracted
- D ghost-ridden

22 The phrase odd feeling in paragraph 4 refers to

- A emotions that never happened before
- B emotions that odd people cause
- C emotions that are not common
- D emotions that are unusual

23 What happened to the volunteers in the experiments?

- A They all saw ghosts.
- B They started believing in ghosts.
- C They became afraid of the dark.
- D They found the same areas spooky.

24 Why are magnetic fields mentioned?

- A They change when a ghost is near.
- B They only occur in haunted places.
- C They are weaker in ancient places.
- D They may explain people's odd experiences.

25 According to the writer, the 'ghosts' that people see are probably

- A Imaginations of people who believe in ghosts
- B Faces of people they recognise in their dreams
- C Visions people see when they are half awake from their dreams
- D People who haunt the comfort of their homes when they are sleeping

26 What is the main point of the text?

- A Scientists can show that ghosts exist.
- B Imagination causes strange experiences.
- C People see ghosts when they are half asleep.
- D There is not just one theory to explain ghosts.

Part 4 (6 marks)

Question 27 to 32

You are going to read an article about a camp on wildlife protection. Six sentences have been removed from the article. Choose from the sentences A to H the one which fits each gap (27 to 32). There are two extra sentences which you do not need to use.

Technology

Technology is developing at a very fast pace and people from different fields of the world are making many additions to it. It is impossible to ignore the impact of technology on our daily lives.

Everything has its pros and cons; similarly, there are both the positive and negative effects of technology. 27 We need to understand how technology developed in the past few decades and how it brought benefits for us and how it made our lives harder.

Most of the time we ignore the level of its importance and take technology for granted. 28 Although in the present, people are facing a lot of problems related to the economy, inflations, unemployment, poverty, illiteracy, etc. but they are living in much better situations with comfortable communications.

It has become difficult to figure out whether technology is good or bad for us due to such remarkable benefits, which we are enjoying nowadays due to the development in technology. 29 Technology has brought revolution in all the basic aspects of our lives like communication, health, religion, language, entertainment, earning and eating habits.

Technology is enabling us to make communication with our relatives and our loved ones. It also strengthens our relations with our friends, workmates, etc. 30 Technology has done miracles in bringing much ease and comfort for students all around the world. They can study online while remaining at home in any part of the world.

Better health facilities are being provided now to patients. 31 By sitting at home, we can get medical treatment by consulting the doctor, just by a video call.

A lot of changes have occurred in our lives due to technology. Most of the changes have produced many beneficial effects in our lives. Take an example of the computer. 32 There were risks of errors too. But with the advent of the modern era, doing the long calculations and obtaining faster results is not a big problem now.

A Before its invention, it was too difficult to solve many numerical problems.

B It has changed our lifestyles and largely enhanced our living criteria.

C It solely depends on the way we use the things.

D Research done by doctors has laid the foundations for biological control diseases.

E Social media is helping us a lot in this regard.

F There are many advantages than disadvantages.

G None of the fields remain untouched.

H Life is no longer the same as before.

PART 5 (8 marks)

Question 33 to 40

We interviewed six teenagers about their environmental awareness activities for World Environment Day. Read the texts below and answer the questions that follow.

Interactive Smartphone Applications

Most smartphones today have many interactive applications that can help you to keep your life on track. Here are some applications that may be useful to you.

A – AGENTUS

Organise your life with AGENTUS. It integrates your calendar, contacts, tasks and memos in one place. A time-saving application as you will be able to manage your schedule in less time.

B – I-ALLOWANCE

I-ALLOWANCE tracks your child's chores and manages your child's share of the housework. It alerts you when tasks are completed and offers customised allowance accounts. You definitely save time settling sibling disputes over who really did the dishes.

C – KILL-O-WATTS

On the money front, KILL-O-WATTS shows you how much energy your appliances are guzzling. You can definitely save money when you realise you can cut fuel consumption and lower electricity expenses.

D – SHOPITTOME

SHOPITTOME will send you email alerts when your favourite brands go on sale. You can even specify the clothing item and key in your size for customised updates. Now there is no excuse for not being able to afford some quality branded items once in a while.

E – WEIGHT WATCHERS MOBILE

WEIGHT WATCHERS MOBILE will help you chart your weight loss by allowing you to enter those pesky points for an on-the-spot tally wherever you are. If you are always on the go and eating out is a norm in your busy schedule, this application will save inches off your waist.

F – POSITIVE QUOTES

POSITIVE QUOTES keeps thousands of positive quotes and messages at your fingertips no matter where you are. Plan a feed schedule for quotes to be sent to you and you might save your sanity in the midst of life's craziness.
